

AFRA Membership Benefits

- Participate in shaping the future of aircraft end-of-life component and material sustainability by assisting in the development of best management practice standards
- Opportunities to participate in AFRA committee projects
- Industry engagement through newsletters and updates
- AFRA eNewsletter, featuring updates from the Association's committees, member news, and upcoming events listings
- Education about the value chain and emerging technologies for disassembly and recycling
- Recognition for commitment to environmental responsibility
- Networking & sponsorship opportunities at AFRA meetings
- Regulatory and media representation

Benefits for Disassemblers and Material Recyclers

- Networking and access to business opportunities
- Participation in development of best management practice standards for AFRA accreditation
- AFRA accreditation confers quality image for your company
- Access to important updates on government policies and requirements
- Technology education

Benefits for Original Equipment Manufacturers

- A role in shaping the future of aircraft end-of-life component & material sustainability
- Education about technology for disassembly and recycling
- Environmental strategies for the full product lifecycle
- Participation in development of best management practice standards for AFRA accreditation
- Regulatory and media representation
- Risk mitigation

Benefits for Air Centers

- Networking and access to business opportunities
- Education about what makes a quality disassembler

Benefits for Lessors and Airlines

- Public recognition of commitment to sustainability
- Education especially about technology for disassembly & recycling
- Participation in development of best management practice standards for AFRA accreditation
- Finding locations for end-of-life access
- Increased asset value from enhanced technology and standards
- Regulatory and media representation
- Risk mitigation

Benefits for Parts Distributors

- Networking and access to business opportunities
- Best practices for handling recycled parts
- Education on what makes a quality disassembler and/or recycler
- Best practices for tracking parts through the supply chain

Benefits for Research Institutes

- Contribute research content and expertise to advance the aircraft end-of-life industry
- Participate alongside AFRA member companies and other research organization in industry research and dialogue
- Gain access to a database of research reports
- Coordinate with the AFRA R&D Committee members and fellow network participants for feedback on research, data collection, etc.
- The opportunity to participate in AFRA conferences

Accredited companies that are not currently AFRA members may join as a member with a discount of 50% off of the first-year dues and a waived join fee.